GRANT SNIDER

Jacketed Hardcover

44 Pages

Ages 3 To 5

Chronicle • Fall 2023

With fantastic bursts of color and lyricism, Grant Snider once again explores the extraordinary within the ordinary in this ode to seemingly boring days and the wonders that can emerge for anyone open to seeing them.

On a gray day, what can happen? It's gloomy outside, and the world feels like it's asleep...but perhaps all that's required for adventure is a bit of curiosity and patience. After all, an everyday stroll can become an adventure in the blink of an eye. Ride alongside a girl on her rickety bicycle through the familiar scenes of her neighborhood as she rediscovers the colors—a splash of yellow, a flash of red, a flutter of blue—that can be found even on a monochrome day.

Nothing Ever Happens on a Gray Day

TAMARA ELLIS SMITH | NANCY WHITESIDES

Jacketed Hardcover

40 Pages

Ages 3 To 5

Chronicle • Fall 2023

When Grief first arrives, it is like an elephant—so big that there is hardly room for anything else. But over time, Grief can become smaller and smaller—until it is a fox, then a mouse and finally a flickering firefly in the darkness leading us down a path of loving remembrance. This lyrical work is an empathetic and comforting balm for anyone who is experiencing grief—be it grieving the loss of a loved one or the losses in the world around us. Its heartfelt message reminds us that there is no loss without love.

For Maurice, a busking dog in Paris, music is everything. Every time he closes his eyes and puts paw to accordion, the streets become concert halls, and passersby his audience. But it's not just the music that makes playing special: it's the community he plays for . . . until the world changes its tune. When people on the street stop taking the time to listen to him play, his music slowly begins to fade. What can we do when “new” becomes “old”? This is a story about who we are, what we're passionate about, and how we act in the face of great change.

The Bear who went to War

ALAN POLLOCK | BRYONY THOMSON

Paperback, 40 Pages, Ages 5 to 8

Old Barn Books • September 2019

In the dark days of war, a group of soldiers far from home come across an orphaned bear cub. They adopt him and hide him in their tents, feeding him with their rations - until he is too big to ignore! When they are told he cannot travel with them, they grant him an officer's commission. Private Wojtek finds himself helping to carry armaments at the fierce Battle of Monte Cassino. After the war, unable to return to their homeland, the band of soldiers arrive in Edinburgh, Scotland. Peter, Wojtek's substitute parent, has no idea where his own family, forced out of their home, can be. There is a happy ending, however, as Peter is reunited with his family in Scotland - and Wojtek finds a new home in Edinburgh zoo. A statue of Wojtek stands in Princes Street Gardens in Edinburgh in memory of the brave bear and his fellow soldiers.

Alan Pollock is a playwright, best known for One Night in November, about the Coventry blitz. He came across the story of Wojtek while researching amongst Polish refugees in Coventry. The youth of the soldiers involved in the Battle of Monte Cassino moved him to write for children for the first time. Bryony Thomson's self-authored debut picture book, The Wardrobe Monster, was published by Old Barn Books in 2018. She explores a totally different illustration style for this story.

When the polar bear wistfully looks at a poster of the North Pole on her bedroom wall, the little girl realizes that her friend needs help to get home.

HEINZ JANISCH | MICHAEL ROHER

Hardcover

32 Pages

Ages 4+

TYROLIA • June 2021

Do you perhaps have an idea which animal in you wants to be awakened?

To look behind the façade, to see the inside of a person, see the soul - big and powerful words, which the exceptional duo Heinz Janisch and Michael Roher transform into a calm and unhurried picture book. The text flows, poetic and relaxed, through the pages as the first-person narrative of an undefined boy, depicting his innermost being as a snow lion who mostly moves smoothly through the world but who cannot let injustice stand. Transposed into pictures that are entirely in blue and (almost) exclusively drawn with biro, they produce a very special effect and surprise the reader with their different interpretative approaches. Respect and tolerance, trust and reliability, the acceptance of diversity ... everything that makes good social interaction possible in the first place, is packed into a picture book.

Run, Little Sparrow!

BRIGITTE WENINGER | ANNA ZEH

Hardcover, 24 Pages, Ages 4+

TYROLIA • January 2022

An encouragement book in the best sense of the word.

Sparrow and mouse are good friends, play and laugh together, and have a great time. But one day it happens: Spatz is injured during a strong thunderstorm. Despite rapid help from the raven, it quickly becomes clear that everything is different from now on. One of the two wings does not heal completely, remains lame, unable to fly. All of a sudden, Spatz is faced with a situation that turns his old, everyday habits upside down and requires a completely new path. This makes you discouraged and desperate, leads to the big question "why" and questions your own identity: "I'm not a real bird anymore!"

Ultimately, however, Spatz has no choice but to acknowledge this reality and gradually approach the new situation. "Run instead of fly" is now the motto. Raven and mouse support him, encourage setbacks and are happy about progress. Sparrow will always love to fly, but being able to run through the meadow with the mouse is a good alternative.

Brigitte Weninger talks sensitively and gently about how courage can be regained after a profound trauma. Anna Zeh puts the story in a realistic setting with a fine line, but creates the characters with a lot of character and kindness.

SARAH M. ORLOVSKÝ | MONIKA MASŁOWSKA

Hardcover, 26 Pages, Ages 4+

TYROLIA • August 2022

When the cellar becomes a living space...

The cellar: for children usually a place of dares and adventures, for adults an everyday place for supplies and other things and now unfortunately once again a space of protection and refuge. Walls that protect and separate, that secure and constrict at the same time. Walls that become a new, unwanted living space for an indefinite period of time.

The two artists encounter this horror and this new reality of life from the perspective of a girl. The family seeks refuge underground, taking the bare necessities with them and huddling together there. A "living burrow" like that of the mole, whom the girl had previously met in the garden and with whom she experienced an unusual closeness, who has the softest fur in the world.

In short, condensed sections, this book tells of a child who has to move her everyday life underground and tries to deal with this new situation. With fantasy and comfort, with memories and an unshakeable hope.

A gentle book on an unfortunately very topical subject.

The grandfather of our story isn't like other grandparents. He wears pink trousers! And that's not all that's strange about him. People say that he's a strange old codger altogether. Feeling blue? Grab this book and learn something new.

Blueprint dyeing is a very old, rare technique for cloth dyeing and printing in indigo (a natural blue dye). It is on the UNESCO World Heritage list. The message of Apolline's Blue Workshop is a wish on the part of its creators that this fascinating traditional craft should be preserved for future generations. The enchanting, fairy-tale-like story tells of a little girl called Apolline and her grandfather's workshop, which is filled with weird and wonderful objects, fragrances and magic. As Apolline learns the art of blueprint dyeing, the young reader learns along with her. Veronika Vlková's delicate illustrations, in watercolours as vivid and mercurial as blueprint dyeing, are in perfect harmony with the theme of the book.

A sweet picture book that plays with surprise: each page doubles with the flap, associating an adjective with which the mother is described to shapes, colors, flavors, aromas.

Like a baby discovering the outside world, Little Panther compares what surrounds her with what she knows best, her mom. A cloud is soft like mom, the fruit is sweet like mom...

In the end, Little Panther hugs her soft, sweet and strong mom, as a child after she has made her first timid attempts to approach the outside world, and then returns to the comforting maternal embrace.

A heart-melting picture book about discovering the world and comparing the first experiences to being with your mom.

EMILY HUGHES

Chronicle • Fall 2022

Isamu Noguchi was a Japanese American artist who gave light to the world. Being mixed-race, Noguchi didn't feel he fit in anywhere, and conceived of himself as a snail, capable of retreating into his creative shell when the world wouldn't embrace him. Through his art, the Snail could shape, hold, and create light of his own. Told with a lyrical energy that contrasts the light and the dark in Noguchi's life, this story will connect with admirers of the natural world, art lovers, and anyone who knows what it's like to feel alone. Packed with emotion and encompassing personal isolation, internment, and a reverence for nature, this book demonstrates the power of art and history in the struggle for identity.
